Genesis 37:12-36

Discussion Questions

1. The life of Joseph was marked with suffering and injustice, and suffering and injustice is something we all face. So how does suffering and injustice become an argument against the existence of an all-powerful, loving God?
2. What would you tell someone who believes suffering and injustice proves that God is not loving, caring, and all-powerful?
3. How has suffering and injustice changed or affected the way you see and relate to God?
4. When it came to the life of Joseph, how did God use suffering and injustice to accomplish His perfect plan and will in Genesis 37?
5. What did envy breed in the brothers of Joseph? What do you tell the person who says I am struggling with envy?
